Words and Music by Randy and Steve Boothe

It takes a lot of time and work to put together a yearbook, and at this time of year you wonder if it was really worth it. Yearbooks are dying all over the nation. This may be the last year for the Na Hoa Pono, and I am proud to have been editor this year.

I know that I have missed many, and to them I apologize. It takes a lot of people to make a yearbook, both producing and starring in it. The moments captured herein are special in many ways. From year to year, a yearbook needs to be looked at to be of any use. To those who appear on these pages, I thank you for being willing to lend a little of your personalities to the pages of this yearbook and for the moments that follow.

LAIE

"The Vision"

David O. McKay, then a member of the Council of the Twelve, stopped in Laie on a world tour in 1921 and took part in a flag raising ceremony for Laie Elementary School children. On that occasion, Elder McKay prophesied that education and the Gospel of Christ would "make of all nations one blood," and most importantly, that the Church would establish a school from which men and women would go "whose influence will be felt for good towards the establishment of peace internationally."

Fulfilling that prophecy, President McKay dedicated the grounds for the founding of the Church College of Hawaii in 1955.

The Church College of Hawaii and the entire Laie area has a great heritage on which to base its future. Many thousands of unpaid hours went into the construction of the college, the Hawaii Temple, and the Polynesian Cultural Center. All are designed to offer a specific and everlasting form of education. The college offers a complete academic education as well as spiritual growth; the Cultural Center provides work experience as well as education in culture and international pride; and the Temple provides a strong religious education. Each institution provides an important foundation on which we can base our eternal knowledge and understanding.

The words selected to go over the mural on the face of the main foyer, the Hawaii motto, are indeed appropriate:

UA MAU KE EIA OKA AINA IKA PONO
which means "the life of the land is preserved in righteousness."

We learn to work and work to serve with genuine concern.

In 1954, President David O. McKay announced the impending establishment of the Church College of Hawaii. Ground was subsequently broken in February of 1955 for the construction of the permanent campus. Beginning academic operations in September of that year, and having no permanent buildings completed, the college began in temporary quarters located near the Hawaii Temple. They included the beautiful Laie Chapel and classrooms, seven war surplus buildings which had been remodeled and freshly painted inside and out, and the old recreation hall used temporarily as a shop. Three other buildings were used as temporary dormitories, namely: Lanihuli, the old Mission Home, Laniloa, a building near the beach in Laie, and Kakela, at the beach south of town.

Growing ever stronger, achieving all we can

Grass and some shrubs had been planted around the temporary buildings, hard surface walks had been constructed, and the temporary campus was in better shape than many had dared hope. The student body this initial year numbered 150 students.

True to prophetic vision, the college was now a reality and the official opening an important event in history.

The founding Church College of Hawaii faculty numbered 21 instructors, five of which have remained to participate in the growth of the college.

The faculty for the first year of 1955-56 is listed as follows; original instructors still employed are marked with an asterisk.

Dr. Reuben D. Law, President
Genevieve W. Boman, Home Economics & Counselor to Women
*Patrick D. Dalton, Agriculture, Director of Farm Operations

The first permanent facilities of the campus were erected through the dedicated labor of building missionaries and volunteers. The labor missionaries were sent to Hawaii by the First Presidency of the Church to donate several years and their talent to the construction of the Church College of Hawaii. Approximately 60 Polynesian volunteer workmen and 30 mainland labor missionaries donated labor estimated at $1,250,000 to the project. Local MIA teenagers also volunteered many hours of work in anticipation of the dedication in 1958.

Preceding the ceremonies for the dedication of the Church College of Hawaii on December 17, 1958, President and Sister McKay and others walked from Laie Elementary School to the Auditorium. Garlands of exotic Hawaiian flowers held by children were stretched across the path of the processional.

In systematic order, each was moved to either side, creating a floral path for the prophet and his devoted wife, paying them appropriate honor and reflecting the beauty and loveliness of this sacred occasion.

The purpose for which this school was built: "First, to learn the things pertaining to God and his kingdom, a testimony of existence of Diety, know that He lives and that He is our Father, the Father of all mankind and ruler of brothers; what that means towards peace and establishing peace in the world. Secondly, that those who are obeying those principles will develop manhood, character, and make noble men and women. The world needs them. One man said the world needs men who cannot be bought or sold, men who will score to violate truth, genuine gold. That is what this school is going to produce. More than that, they'll be leaders. Not leaders only in this island, but everywhere. All the world is hungering for them and, best of all, the world is recognizing them."

"No man or woman should teach in this college who doesn't have in his or her heart an assurance, not mere belief, an assurance, that God has had His hand over this entire valley, that that dedication offered years ago was inspired, that this land is a choice land. It's part of America, part of Zion. Furthermore, that the gospel plan, as revealed by our Father in Heaven through His Son to the Prophet Joseph Smith, is the only plan by which the world, by obedience, may obtain peace."

We dedicate our actions in service unto thee and unto thy glory and to the salvation of the children of men, that this college, and this temple, and the town of Laie may become a missionary factor, influencing not thousands, not tens of thousands, but millions of people who will come seeking to know what this town and its significance are.

To this end we consecrate our actions, imploring thy guidance and thy inspiration to attend those who lay the foundation of the college, who build it, and especially upon those who teach and the students who come to be instructed.

The theme is the controlling idea behind a yearbook. At least, it is supposed to be. It is the most difficult part of making a yearbook. How do you condense the spirit of BYU-HC, its life, its motivation, into one or two words? A single word is a very small thing.

What would happen if you could slow life down? Let's slow it down very slow and imagine. Slowly . . . slower . . . until frame by frame our life slips through the projector . . . what do we have left? Moments!

We have all kinds of moments, some important, some not, some sad and some hopefully forgotten; but with them we are left! We hope that during the course of the year we can collect a few of the moments that make our lives here at BYU-HC. Moments can be anything golden in life. A friend can make them, or even an enemy, every new experience is a moment.

MOMENTS...
